Re: Reservoir Resiliency Study

James Walker has reviewed the contract from Oregon Emergency Management and had a few items noted. The contract has been sent back to OEM for review. Once it gets legal approval, a copy will be sent out. You should see this contract in the coming days. Once the contract is complete with OEM, Dan Johnson will present his contract form HDR to start the study of the Reservoir Resiliency Study. The project should take around 6 months to complete. Once completed, the city will start the process of applying for further grants to replace the aging tanks with new ones designed for seismic resiliency.

Thanks,

Dan Weitzel
